Ursula Genaehr 1961-2017

Border Music Camp was terribly saddened by Ursula Genaehr's recent passing. Ursula was a fixture in the oboe section of Davis for years, and she sent many of her students to Border. All were meticulously prepared because Ursula was a great teacher: she believed that teaching was a calling of the highest importance, and she refused to accept sloppy standards from her students or from herself. And her students were all alive with music, because Ursula was alive with music herself. She thought of music as a holy thing, a sacred thing: she was playing right up to her last days. Border Music Camp is all about music, and teaching, and learning, and we are sorry to have lost someone whose entire life was about the same things.
